In the first part of the presentation, site manager Steen Lundbye will talk about how the nomination itself has affected Christiansfeld over the years and the development of both the city and the way in which the local management system has responded to the various challenges that have arisen along the way.

In the second part of the presentation, site manager Steen Lundbye, who is also employed as cultural heritage manager at the state-recognized Museum Kolding in Kolding municipality, where Christiansfeld is located, will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of being employed as a part-time site manager.

In the last part of the presentation, site manager Steen Lundbye will give his perspective on Christiansfeld's role in the new transnational site Moravian Church Settlements and how the four individual sites can benefit from each other in the future narrative of their common cultural heritage.
